DUCKPINENTRY DATE EXTENDED

Lists for Washington City Association Tournament to Close Saturday Night.

By E. D. THOMAS.
George T. Cox, president of the Washington City Duckpin Association, announced officially today that the closing of entries for the eleventh annual championship tournament of the association has been extended to next Saturday midnight.

The entry list was to have closed last night, at which time 103 teams, 228 doubles, and 285 singles were in hand. Decision to extend the time was made by the association's governing body at the suggestion of Cox.

Several leagues have notified Treasurer Norman "Nick" Boss that meetings are to be held within a day or two, at which it is expected they will decide to enter in a body. Among these are the Knights of Columbus and the Washington Centennial leagues.

PRIZES ON EXHIBITION.
President Cox wishes to call attention again to the exceptional display of prizes to be awarded in the tournament. On exhibition at Spaulding's, in Fourteenth street, are three diamond medals given by The Washington Times for the events; fourteen gold medals given by The Evening Star for the singles; six silver cups donated, three each by the Washington Post and the Washington Herald, and a number of other noteworthy prizes.

Some of these handsome trophies will be competed for on special nights in the tournament, such as Masonic night and Commercial night and others to be named later.

FOR YOUNGER BOWLERS.
Special attention of the younger bowlers, who have never rolled in a tournament of the association, is called to the fact that the Washington City Duckpin Association, A. B. and C. contributes to its own prize fund and to no other.

All official scorers are requested to send in averages of their respective leagues compiled up to April 18, to Secretary Magnus Wood, 918 G street northwest.

Nearly co-operation of Federal officials is expected by the American League chief, especially in view of the fact that President Harding himself is an ardent fan.

Says "SKILLET" Finn, Esq., Gink Fowler Was the Duke of Paralytics When We Met in a Kindergarten Ring.

By SKILLET FINN.
(Per Kirk Miller.)
Mr. Bugs Baer, Silly Department, New York American.

Whoosus:
I see your wise crack in de paper boutten my fighting proclivities and I wonder how people can pay you for lying so truthfully.

Your man Gink Fowler should be spelled Fowler. That's how he smelled the day I extracted all his teeth with one fell swoop which ever way you hear.

Ten minutes after I landed in Roughtown to fight this Fowler, I was the only inhabitant of that greasy little metropolis of anemias.

ALL LEFT ROUGHTOWN ON A MERE RUMOR.

A rumor that I was due was all the warning they needed to depart like the Germans left St. Mihiel.

True, Fowler was a fighter. They took his only enemy away when they stole the works. He could stand up longer against Old Red Eye Drops and drop harder than a pan of clabber falling off of Washington Monument.

Fowler's feet could run backwards only.

"Forward, march," is a command they never taught in Roughtown Schools because they never had any.

You say, "Whatta a punch he had!"

You meant, "Whatta punch he got."

Fowler has never been back to Roughtown since the day I departed. There's not enough money in the world to pay his Pullman fare home.

He'll never worry Roughtown's sleepy folks for the same reason that you'll never annoy Philadelphia.

MURDERED NEVER VISITS SCENE OF CRIME.

A murderer sometimes revisits the scene of his crime, but the murdered never does.

You know what I mean—you tramp.

In the future when you are press agenting your former meal ticket, stick to words you know how to use.

Stick to the English language as it is used outside of Roughtown.

Stick to facts.

And stick to the truth.

If possible.

Yours until the Statue of Liberty is a dowager.

SKILLET FINN.

We Are Out To Establish a New Record In Business Volume—!!

Last year in the months of April and May we did the greatest volume of business in our 19 years of Merchant Tailoring. We do not feel satisfied to sit back and accept the much misplaced slogan of "bad times" and leave our business drop in volume.

With the firm purpose in view of equaling if not surpassing last year's figures, we went into the woolen markets and made tremendous purchases of these WORSTEDS to make this sale possible.

EVERY yard of cloth is carefully scrutinized for imperfections by Public Examiners and then London shrunk. In other words the customers' interests are protected in so far as is possible.

And we may add that it has been some years since we or any other tailors have been able to offer such GUARANTEED WORSTEDS AND BLUE SERGES at anywhere near this low price.

We Are Emphatic In Stating That The Savings Are of Greatest Importance

And we may add that it has been some years since we or any other tailors have been able to offer such GUARANTEED WORSTEDS AND BLUE SERGES at anywhere near this low price.

THE expense is considerable but absolutely necessary. The fact that we have built up an ever-increasing business over a period of 19 years vindicates our judgment.
